Jackson's Palm Held Secrets Of Sudden Death

TORONTO (Wireless Flash - FlashNews) – Michael Jackson had all he needed to know about his tragic death at his fingertips – literally.

Psychic Anthony Carr – “The Man Who Predicted 9/11” – studied Jackson’s palm in 2003 for an article in National Examiner and predicted the pop star’s “sudden and shocking demise.”

Upon reading the lines in Jackson’s hand, Carr had an instant premonition that the King of Pop would suffer a “terrible end.”

The palm revealed Jackson’s life would be “filled with torment and pain” leading to an “early death.”

He also noticed a break in Jackson’s heartline – the line below the fingers – indicating that he’d suffer a heart attack, which he did.

Though Carr’s palm predictions are spot-on, 2003 wasn’t the first time he foreshadowed MJ’s downfall.

In 1984 – at the peak of Jackson’s career – Carr told the Globe the future looked grim for the singer. Even back then, he had a “nauseating feeling Jackson would destroy himself.”

Carr is the author of The Book Of Palms (White Knight).

AMAZING NEW PSYCHIC'S STARTLING PREDICTIONS

AN AMAZING Canadian psychic and palm reader predicts the future with such uncanny accuracy that he is being hailed by reputable experts as a new Jeanne Dixon.

In fact, Anthony Carr, of Toronto, Canada, (pictured right) is in a class by himself, say many columnists, editors, authors, politicians and celebrities.

His sensational prophecies have included the deaths of Pope John Paul I and Princess Grace, the Falkland Islands war, the bombing of the Statue of Liberty, the first mechanical heart for Barney Clark, the marriage of Prince Charles to Lady Di and a forecast that their first child would be a boy.

He also predicted the resignation of Canadian premier Pierre Trudeau, the death of Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, the attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II and the eruption of Mt. St. Helens.

He has also read palms and made predictions for more than 100 celebrities, including

He foresaw deaths of Princess Grace and Pope John Paul I

Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor, Lillian Gish, Liberace, Tony Bennett, Glenda Jackson and Ella Fitzgerald.

"He comes right to the point and doesn't indulge in vague generalities," says Allen Spraggett, one of the world's top psychic investigators.

"Tony Carr is a man who truly sees the future. In my opinion, he is genuinely and uniquely gifted," Spraggett told GLOBE.

Paul Rimstead, a Toronto newspaper columnist, adds: "Tony Carr has been amazing me, my friends and business associates with his wizardry ever since we met several years ago."

Syndicated columnist George Cunnungham-Tee says: "I have come to trust Tony Carr's views and have seen his prophetic power in action."

What psychic experts find most unusual about Carr, 40, is that his predictions come in the form of spontaneous visions that are not always clear and have to be interpreted by others.

One such vision involved the fatal shooting of a priest wearing a "fish-shaped" hat, standing behind a table with a white cloth and huge cross on it, while he held a large cup raised in the air.

Carr called Spraggett in the middle of the night and, after questioning, it became clear that the victim was possibly a bishop from Latin American.

"Three days later, Catholic Archbishop Oscar Romero of San Salvador was assassinated by a right-wing death squad while celebrating mass," Spraggett recalls. "He was shot in the heart and died instantly."

Tony Carr visions usually herald death or disaster. He sees another attempt being made on the life of John Paul II. "I see a young Oriental boy bringing flowers," Carr says. "I'm not sure if the boy will make the assassination attempt, but he will be involved."

He has already "seen" the death of three major movie stars, who he has named to GLOBE. And he's given us details of several impending disasters.

GLOBE is recording these predictions and locking them away.

On the bright side, Carr predicts that there will be a sensational breakthrough in the treatment of cerebral palsy.

He also predicts that Michael Jackson will become involved in a bizarre, sex-related scandal.

Carr told GLOBE.

And according to famed seer and palmist Anthony Carr, telltale signs on the singer's hand reveal that the remainder of his life will be filled with torment and pain — and perhaps an early death.

WHEN Michael Jackson waved to the world after his arrest, he put his entire future on display.

And according to famed seer and palmist Anthony Carr, telltale signs on the singer's hand reveal that the remainder of his life will be filled with torment and pain — and perhaps an early death.

Carr, who has been dubbed the world's most-documented psychic, says Jackson is in deep trouble.

According to Carr, the shape and line patterns on the 45-year-old star's palm indicate:

- A violent end, possibly by homicide or suicide.
- His death is triggered by an insatiable appetite for sins of the flesh — sex, alcohol and plastic surgery.
- A belief that he is above the law.
- A split personality who often cannot separate fantasy from reality.
- His musical legend will live on for all time.

Carr made a special study of Jackson's palm after The King of Pop was arrested in Santa Barbara, Calif., for allegedly molesting a 13-year-old boy.

The seer says Jackson's hand has a long palm and short fingers, indicating an impulsive nature.

"He's prone to make rash decisions," says Carr. "His much-lined palm tells me that he has a disastrous personal life due to a whole series of neurotic hang-ups."

"The constant criss-crossing of lines and etchings indicate a highly sexual nature, a person who has great trouble focusing and functioning in the real world, but who tries to impose his own fantasies on those around him."

A double headline — running across the palm — shows his dual nature, says Carr.

"They are separate and distinct and indicate he is a person of true power and talent.

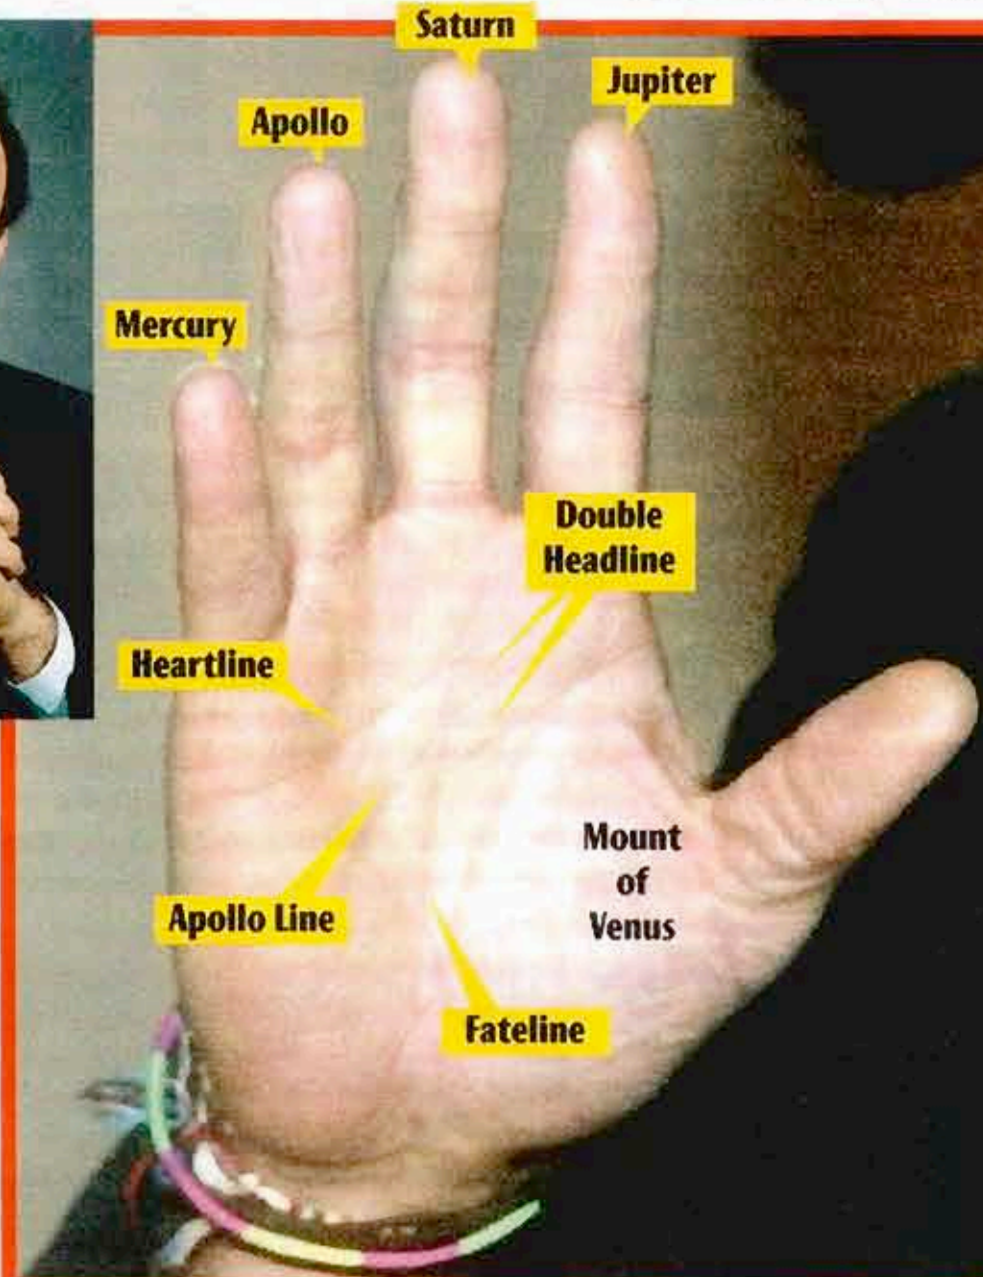

"But they both curve down toward the wrist and this underlines that he has difficulty separating fantasy and reality."

The fingers are also clues to Jackson's personality, says Carr.

"His Jupiter or first finger is much longer than his third finger — a sign that he has a superiority complex, believing himself to be someone with little need to follow convention and considering himself above the law," the seer says.

Jackson's Mount of Venus — the pad immediately beneath his thumb — is further proof of Jackson's voluptuous nature.

"It is overly developed and out of all proportion to the rest of the hand," says Carr.

"It is etched and crossed by lines, like a game of Xs and Os on his palm.

"Traditionally, this combination of a very fleshy mound and excessive markings is linked with a love of sensuous pleasures — sex, good wines and excessive interest in looks and body that indicates his interest in plastic surgery.

"Often the voluptuous aspects are controlled by a strong thumb.

"But in Jackson's case, the thumb is small and weak. The overall effect is this portends a degree of voluptuousness and debauchery that brings about a sudden and violent death."

Further portents of Jackson's possible end are in the superstar's fateline.

"The fateline controls career success," says Carr. "Michael's breaks up at the heartline and then skews toward the Jupiter finger.

"This indicates a devastating blow to his career because of an emotional and possibly sexual connection," the psychic explains.

Considering the palm as a whole, says Carr, the full effect is one of future troubles and danger.

"I'm afraid that his hand portends a violent finale — either homicide or suicide," predicts the seer.

* "Michael Jackson is facing a sudden and shocking demise.

"But the configuration of the square of etchings on the Apollo line as it reaches above the heartline ensures that his art and legend will live on."

Only Jackson's musical legend will survive, says our expert

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

These predictions and prophecies were written and completed by June 30, 2008:

CONAN O'BRIEN, "Mr. Laid Back" TV talk-show host, is on his way up the corporate ladder! Soon he'll be head honcho of a giant television conglomerate where he'll flourish and prosper! Or prosper and flourish! (...Or is that the same thing?)

ED MCMAHON: The stress of fighting for his Beverly Hills mansion puts JOHNNY CARSON'S sidekick in a deep coma from which he doesn't waken (unless kissed by the handsome princess). His widow then collects the $50,000,000 insurance policy which she secretly took out on him, and the day is saved. (Hallelujah, Hallelujah!)

"Like an elevator car whose cable snaps at the hundred floor level, North American real estate plummets! People with only a few dollars will be able to buy whole blocks of houses and commercial properties—that is, if the present currency is still worth anything, since monies the world over will be useless without the gold standard behind it. The next 'coin of the realm' may very well be bottle caps!... The Canadian dollar isn't worth much more than that, anyhow.

"The financial world is precariously balanced on the precipice of collapse! Worse than the 'dirty 30s'—when the few who possessed money—money that was then backed by the gold standard and so were still considered solvent—this crash will render even the billions of "pieces of paper" floating around the world worthless, as entire civilizations frantically search for new currency.

* * *

"The coming real estate and cash crash will make the 'Dirty 30s' Depression look like a Sunday school picnic! Although a few may possess 'money', a dollar without the gold-standard is just worthless paper! Not worth the one hundred pennies it was during the Depression Era with the gold behind it. No gold equals worthless paper; ergo, the 'wealthy' will be as poor as the poor!" (Chew on that a while!)

No doubt exists in my Mind's Eye that we are headed for a cashless society!

After all, what good is wealth if you can't flaunt it, if all you can pull out of your pocket is thin air. Hell, I can do that now, and I'm broke! Don't trust the Euro! When the Mideast and Europe blow—so will it! (To wit: all the above was first predicted in STARGAZER: Predictions & Prophecies, 2005, then again in STARGAZER: Predictions & Prophecies, 2008.)

"Although the American dollar loses ground, it shall remain the world's strongest currency; which is to say: whoever carries the biggest stick wields the financial power. And as far as I know it still is and will continue to be—AMERICA!
